Day 5

Experience a walk in the ethereal Pafuri Fever Tree forest

The Pafuri Fever Tree Forest, located in the Makuleke part of the Kruger National Park in South Africa, is a unique and captivating natural phenomenon. The forest's formation is primarily attributed to the specific ecological conditions of the area. Fever trees (Vachellia xanthophloea), known for their distinctive yellow-green bark, thrive in wetland and marshy environments, and they are particularly drawn to soils with a high water table. The forest has formed along the banks of the Luvuvhu River, where these conditions are met.

Through a unique set of conditions a many of these trees grew close together creating the dense and enchanting forest that visitors can experience today.

The Pafuri Fever Tree Forest is not only a visual spectacle but also a testament to the complex interactions between the landscape, water, and plant life in this remarkable ecosystem.

As you step into this enchanting realm, you are surrounded by a multitude of slender, pale trunks rising from the earth like sentinels. The unique, luminescent yellow-green bark of the fever trees creates an ethereal ambiance, particularly when bathed in the golden light of sunrise or sunset. The forest floor is dappled with sunlight that filters through the branches, casting intricate patterns on the ground below. The air is infused with a sense of tranquility, as the rustling leaves and occasional bird call create a delicate symphony that underscores the forest's beauty.

Picnic breakfast in the Fever tree forest

Imagine a tranquil picnic amidst the enchanting Pafuri Fever Tree Forest, a place of ethereal beauty and captivating serenity. Beneath the shade of the feathery foliage, a gentle breeze rustles the leaves, creating a soothing melody that accompanies the symphony of nature around you. The golden sunlight filters through the branches, casting dappled patterns on the forest floor. Your picnic spread, a delightful array of local delicacies and fresh fruits, blends seamlessly with the enchanting surroundings. With each sip of your drink, you're not just enjoying a picnic; you're becoming a part of the forest's timeless tale, connecting with the land and its secrets. The Pafuri Fever Tree Forest transforms your meal into a meditative escape, where every bite carries the essence of the wild and every moment is an ode to the enchantment of the African wilderness.

Day 11

Experience sea life up close - dive the world famous dive sites Manta reef

Tofo's coastline is largely undeveloped and full of life due to the Agulhas Current and allows some of the most spectacular diving in the world. The waters around Tofo, Mozambique's unofficial diving capital, are teeming with biodiversity making it possible for year-long Whale Shark, Giant Manta, Ray, Dolphin and seasonal Humpback Whale sightings as well as a dazzling array of soft & hard corals, and the newly discovered reefs cement Tofo as a jewel of the Indian Ocean.

Get more dive experience or start your diving career with a professional instructor.

Besides these gentle giants, the Tofo area also offers spectacular world class diving on pristine reefs with an abundance of marine life ranging from soft and hard corals, pelagic fishes, multitudes of reef fishes, shrimps, nudibranchs, giant moray eels, turtles, dolphins and a variety of rays, some of which are not seen in many parts of the world like the small eye stingray. Sightings of White Tip, Black Tip and Grey Reef Sharks are a common occurrence and even the occasional Leopard Shark or Hammerhead Sharks are seen every now and then.

Once you've pushed the pontoon boat past the breakers and everyone is secured in the vessel, be prepared for a stunning journey through the bay to one of several close or far reefs where your guide will begin to introduce you to the underwater paradise of Mozambique. Water temperatures range from 20C in winter to 30C in the summer months. Visibility is an average 15 m for the year with ranges between 5 m to as much as 40 m during our clearer months, typically between April and October.

Experience local nightlife in a rustic seaside village

Tofo's beach village transforms into a vibrant nightlife, where the rhythms of Mozambican life come alive under the starlit sky. The air is filled with the enticing aroma of local delicacies sizzling on open grills, and the soft strains of live music draw you toward the heart of the village. Engaging conversations flow easily with locals and fellow travelers alike, as you share stories and laughter over delicious seafood platters and traditional Mozambican dishes.

Amidst the candlelit tables and the sounds of waves caressing the shoreline, the atmosphere is electric with a palpable sense of camaraderie. Live performances showcase the region's cultural tapestry, with vibrant dance moves and soulful melodies. As the evening unfolds, the rhythm of the night takes over, inviting you to sway to the music or simply soak in the festive ambiance. The interaction with the friendly locals lends authenticity to the experience, offering glimpses into the warmth and vibrancy of Tofo's community spirit. This seaside village's nightlife offers a perfect blend of local flavors, welcoming faces, and the lulling sound of the ocean, creating unforgettable memories of evenings spent immersed in Mozambique's coastal magic.

Day 12

DEPARTURE - 3 hr -

Return Flights - Inhambane to Johannesburg

Clear customs and fly direct from Inhambane to Lanseria international airport:

As the journey draws to a close, you're left with a tapestry of memories woven from the diverse experiences that have unfolded along the way. From the ethereal tranquility of the Pafuri Fever Tree Forest to the heart-pounding encounters with wildlife in Gorongosa National Park, each adventure has etched itself into the fabric of your travels and experiences.

Low-level flights gifted you with a bird's-eye view of Mozambique's majestic landscapes, while the seaside escapes in Inhambane and Tofo immersed you in the essence of coastal living. The sunsets, the laughter with locals, and the tantalizing flavors of the local cuisine have woven themselves into the story of the journey, creating a mosaic of moments that capture the heart and soul of these extraordinary corners of Africa.

Bid farewell to these unforgettable experiences, in a final flight from Inhambane to Lanseria, but carry with you the colors, sounds, and emotions that have turned this adventure into a cherished chapter in the story of your explorations.
